OBITUARY.—Chas. II. Poole, brother MOME HAPPENINGS. of the late Fitch Poole, and well known to our older readers, died in Washington, D. C., at 4 P. M. on Sunday, the 25th 30. ult. He was born in Peabody and was 55 years of age. He went to school in this town and afterward worked in the Register office, in Salem, In 1845, ıdthrough the influence of Hon. Daniel P. 111-King, he received an appointment to ize West Point, where he staid two years .ies He located in Roxbury as a civil engi-161 neer. About 1852 he was in the govern-(1)ment service in the employ of the Lightver house Board. He was associated on le. the coast survey in California, with Lieut." at-George H. Derby, known to fame by his of humorous writings with the pseudonym, nσ "John Phonix." A little before the be war he went with his family to Mobile.ir, He was forced into the rebel service and he had charge of the defences of the city, a of plan of which he gave to Gen. E. S. Canre by when he took the city in April, 1865. ed After the war he became connected with be the Post Office Department, in Washingit. ton. He leaves a widow (Mary Abby, ug daughter of Stephen Daniels of Salem), a ild son and a daughter. He was buried on si-Tuesday, the 27th ult., from his church 10. (Episcopal), with the honors of masonry, ild in which fraternity he was a Knight Temge plar. We have at this office some drawat ings sent us by Mr. Poole. One is a pic-11 ture of the old Finney House, built in til 1765, now on the corner of Main and W Foster Streets. The other is a picture of be the old South Church that stood on the Squere in 1836. Mr. Poole was a genial. accomplished gentleman, an agreeable iis companion and a warm-hearted friend. In